them other than they are-a brief summary infamous of liars."

The most important matter yet acted upon by the House, was the defeat, yesterday, of the bill repealing the ten per cent. interest law. There was a brief but pretty fierce discussion of the question. Hon. Mr. Rankin, of this city, came down in the most savage manner on all money lenders. He said he "would send to the Penitentiary for life, every scoundrel who would take more than four per cent. per annum." and more of the same sort. But a majority would not follow his lead. The bill lacked six votes of the constitutional majority and was defeated.

The bill for the re-organization of the State House Board and putting Democrats into the places now occupied by the old Board, being one of the series of partisan measures of the last session postponed to this, was indefinitely postponed. A prominent Democrat made the motion, and in a very neat little speech, said that there was no use in fighting against the people and the Supreme Court, and the bill was killed unconstitutional. It seems to be the fate of all enterforune out of the State improvements, while their management now costs the people many thousands of dollars to keep them in repair.
